complicated parts designed with the help of an ordinary machine cannot be machined and for each separate operation machine it is necessary to increase the number of required machines and increase the required area to be accommodated and, therefore, the overall initial cost required. In our project we minimize previous complicated problems. WORKING PRINCIPLE Compressor air is used as a means of force for this operation. A single action and double action cylinder is used in this machine. Compressor air enters Valve flow control. The air enters the barrel unit by one way and the other form of air enters the solenoid valve. When the air enters in cylinder 1, due to the pressure difference the work in white is subject and when the air enters the other cylinder due to the drilling operation pressure difference occurs when the drilling head lowers and perforates the workpiece. After this operation the cylinder releases the clamping and perforation head comes to its original position. PNEUMATIC AUTO FEED MULTI OPERATION MACHINEMERITS It reduces manual work. Because it's portable, in such places where frequent change is required in the operation. Conclusion the project carried out by us did an impressive task in the field of small-scale industries and car maintenance workshops. It is very useful for workers to perform a series of operations on a single machine. this project has also reduced the cost involved in the concern, the project has been designed to perform the entire task of requirements that has also been provided. download more resources / hydraulic articles jack projects project shows report, final report download low cost mechanical projects ideas of products, innovative ideas of machines. this project has niw mechanical projects 2020 (all projects post index list) design of the list of indexes) and manufacturing projects - summary, download report of link to pressure containers - parts, design, application, types, material, diagram link to articulation of knuckles - parts, application download report
